

How to Grow Queen of Night Tulip Bulbs

☎ 888 246 5233
Todd's Seeds, 46495,
Humboldt Dr. Novi, Mi 48377

If Halloween were in spring, this tulip would probably be Number 1. It's the result of decades of work trying over and over to breed a truly black tulip. Queen of the Night is the closest any of the Dutch hybridizers have ever come to black, even though it's really a deep, deep purple. In some light it appears jet black. And in arrangements, it is the flower arranger's darling and the gardener's pride. The experts in Holland tell us men particularly love this tulip along with the pure red ones. It's just as easy to grow as all the others, so why not invite the dark queen into your garden, and watch the neighbors oooh and ahhh.

Product Details:

Botanical Name: Tulipa

Common Name: Single Late Tulips

Type: Flower Bulb

Color: Very dark flowers almost Black

Height: 24-28" tall

Spread/Width: Plant 9 bulbs per square foot.

Bloom Time: Late spring

Sun/Shade: Full sun to partial shade

Soil Preferences: Tulips will grow in most soil types. Soil must be well drained.

Variety: Queen of the Night

Advantages: Everyone loves this unique tulip. Incredible in the garden or in a vase.

Zones: 3-8